

The Local Environment – Intermediate Interdisciplinary Numeracy Project Reflection

Big Idea

Maintaining the land and environment is essential for our physical and mental health.

Reflection

Respond to the following questions by either using words, or images with labels.

How did your walk and close eye on nature and the environment, deepen your understanding and connection to the land you live on?

How did you choose to express and share your thinking, ideas, or wonders with others? Why?

In what ways did this walk and experience help you learn about your community and the natural world around you?

How can you encourage others to learn more about the local environmental issue you have noticed?

Describe a roadblock/challenge you faced in one of these tasks (wondering/questioning, collecting and sharing information about your local environment, identifying connections or relationships in the way that plants and animals respond and react to time of day and weather conditions, researching local indigenous plants and their uses, identifying and designing a plan for improving your local environment).

How did you persevere (push through) to complete the task?

How did this neighborhood walk impact you?

What's next?

What questions do you still have? What are you interested in further exploring? What skill do you want to develop more? How might you take action (act) on the environmental issue you are interested in? How might that feel?

What advice would you give to someone else attempting to do the same tasks?
